

Make your own bird feeder

Want to take a close-up look at the birds in your own backyard? Follow these simple instructions to make a bird feeder that birds won't be able to resist. Rain or shine, the birds will enjoy this treat!

What you will need:

- An empty toilet paper roll
- Some string
- Peanut butter
- Bird seed

1. Punch two holes on one end of the toilet paper roll using a pencil. Make sure the holes are across from each other so that you can put a string through it.
2. Put a string through both holes. Tie the loose ends of the string together (so that you can hang it later).
3. Spread peanut butter all around the outside of the toilet paper roll.
4. Pour the bird seed onto a plate or other flat surface.
5. Roll the toilet paper roll in the bird seed. Make sure the seeds stick to the outside!
6. Hang your new bird feeder outside near a window so you can see it from inside.
7. Wait for birds to come and feast on your fancy new bird feeder!

Find this activity online and learn more about birds by visiting NASA's Climate Kids website:

<http://climatekids.nasa.gov/extreme-weather-birds>

Find more fun activities at <http://climatekids.nasa.gov/make> and <https://www.weather.gov/learning>

